In wake of Russia-Ukraine war, Ministry of Economy forms panel to chalk out food security plan

Minister of Economy and Trade Muhammad Al-Hawij has assigned a group of specialists to prepare a food security strategy to help the country confront the food crisis gripping the world in the wake of the Russian-Ukrainian war. The team comprises the heads of the Economic and Social Development Council, the Public Investment Promotion Authority, and the private sector development, investment, and internal trade offices in the ministry. Minister Al-Hawij disclosed the step during a meeting with economic and trade affairs officials on Wednesday. "The minister gave his orders to form a panel. to prepare a short and long-term food security strategy to complete the suspended industrial projects through investment with local and foreign private sectors and to activate the agricultural departments in the southern region," the ministry stated on Facebook. Security forces comb Mizdah desert valleys in search of ISIS.

A security patrol was dispatched to the desert to comb the south of Mizdah district after receiving a tip regarding suspicious movements of ISIS members in the area, the Stabilization Support force confirmed on Tuesday. In a post on Facebook, the force said it received a communication reporting vehicle flying the black and white flag used by ISIS roaming the valleys south of Mizdah. According to the force, the alleged ISIS group stopped a motorist south of Mizdah, some 100 km from the memorial in Wadi Merset, and seized from him fuel and canned food before heading towards the valleys of Nesma. It confirmed that the patrol combed the valleys south of Mizdah up to the Sarir al-Maqtatiya but found no track of ISIS, presuming they fled either to the south or east. The Libya Observer

444 Brigade intensifies its inspection campaigns in the desert

The 444 Brigade has intensified its inspection campaigns in the desert areas, after receiving several reports of suspected movements belonging to ISIS. The Brigade indicated that its forces carried out an intensive campaign to comb valleys, plains, and plateaus, targeting hundreds of kilometers south of the city of Bani Walid, Nasma, Mizdah, Qurayyat and Shwerf. Libyan people want stability, which will only be achieved through elections.

Time is running out, and the Libyan people are eager for stability that can only be realized with the holding of national elections based on a sound and consensual constitutional framework, the UN Special Adviser, Stephanie Williams said at the opening of a new round of UN-facilitated talks between members of the joint committee consisting of the House of Representatives and the High Council of the State in Cairo. In a statement published on its website Sunday, the UN Support Mission in Libya quoted Williams as saying that the Libyan people are tired of war and endless competition over executive authority and economic resources and want to choose their representatives so that their long-awaited dream of stability and prosperity can finally be achieved. Authorities in Libya intercept over 200 illegal immigrants at sea.

Libya's Coast Guard intercepted a vessel carrying around 200 illegal migrants trying to cross to Europe on Sunday, the navy has confirmed. "The vessel 'Zuwara' sailed to the spot north of Khums with the necessary equipment for the rescue operation," the media office of the navy said. The migrants, mainly Bangladeshi, were disembarked at the Khums Naval Base and handed over to the competent authorities. The Chief of Staff of the Naval Forces said the move comes within the framework of combating illegal activities at sea, vowing that the Anti-Migration Authority will do its humanitarian duty to shelter and complete procedures for their safe deportation to their countries.

LIBYA SECURITY & RISK LEVELS

The current US State Department Travel Advisory: Security Alert as at 25 th April 2022	Level 4	Global Health Advisory: Do Not Travel
--	------------	--

1	Exercise normal precautions	2	Exercise increased caution
3	Reconsider travel	4	Do not travel

Do not travel to Libya due to COVID-19, crime, terrorism, civil unrest, kidnapping, and armed conflict.

Due to recent armed confrontations that have the potential to recur, it strongly encourages international citizens to maintain a high level of vigilance and practice good situational awareness. Crime levels in Libya remain high, including the threat of kidnapping for ransom. International citizens have been targets of these crimes. The Centres for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) has issued a Level 4 (Very High) Travel Health Notice for Libya due to COVID-19. Your risk of contracting COVID-19 and developing severe symptoms may be lower if you are fully vaccinated with an FDA authorized vaccine.

Terrorists may attack with little or no warning, targeting tourist locations, hotels, transportation hubs, markets/shopping malls, and government facilities.

Outbreaks of violence between competing armed groups can occur with little warning and have the potential to impact citizens. The capital, Tripoli, and other cities, such as Surman, Al-Jufra, Misrata, Ajdabiya, Benghazi, Sabha, and Derna, have witnessed fighting among armed groups, as well as terrorist attacks. Hotels and airports frequented by Westerners have been the targets of these attacks. Even demonstrations intended to be peaceful can turn confrontational and escalate into violence.

If you decide to travel to Libya:

- Carry proof of citizenship and valid immigration status at all times.
- Avoid demonstrations and crowds.
- Make contingency plans to leave.
- Consider consulting with a professional security organization.
- Develop a communication plan with family and/or your employer or host organization.

The deployment is in response to a report of an ISIS presence in the area the previous day. The report alleged that three vehicles bearing an ISIS flag established a fake checkpoint and stopped a civilian vehicle and seized his food and fuel supplies, south of Mizdah. The patrols then returned to their base after they did not find any signs of a presence of ISIS in the area	0

Tunisia's Foreign Minister renews his country's support for efforts to complete Libya's political process: Tunisian Foreign Minister Osman Al-Jarandi expressed his country's keenness to support all efforts aimed at completing the political process in Libya to ensure return of stability by establishing institutions and save them from all foreign interventions. The announcement was made by the Tunisian official during a meeting with UN Secretary-General's Special Adviser on Libya Stephanie Williams at the ministry's headquarters in Tunis on Friday. According to a statement issued by the Tunisian Foreign Ministry, Al-Jarandi expressed his country's support for United Nations effort in Libya, to bring the various political parties closer together, and spare the neighbouring country any dangers or slippage that might occur, and the negative repercussions it could have on the stability of the entire region. The Ministry of Defense is discussing with the French military attaché in Libya to enhance cooperation between the two countries: The Director of the Office of the Minister of Defense in charge discussed with the French military attaché in Libya, military cooperation and issues of common interest between the two countries. The meeting, which was held at the headquarters of the Ministry of Defense in Tripoli, in the presence of the Director of the International Cooperation Office at the Ministry, also discussed cooperation in the areas of combating terrorism and irregular migration. During the meeting, the two sides agreed on joint work mechanisms to work through, according to what was published by the Ministry of Defense on its official Facebook page. Libyan News Agency

Al Mnefi discusses with Williams latest political developments in Libya: President of the Presidential Council Mohammed Al Mnefi on Thursday morning received UN Secretary-General's Advisor on Libya Stephanie Williams to discuss the latest political developments in Libya. According to the Presidential Communication Office, Williams briefed Al Mnefi on the preparations for the Cairo meetings between the House of Representatives and the High Council of State, which will start in the middle of this month, the anticipated results on the constitutional rule, and the steps taken towards consensus on the constitutional track. She assured him of the mission's commitment to continue efforts to find a solution to the current political crisis, praising the efforts of the Presidential Council to bring the views closer between the various parties. Libya's constitutional committee resumes UN-sponsored talks in Cairo: The second round of talks, which started on Sunday, brought together the newly-formed Constitutional Track Committee, which comprises representatives of Libya's two rival parliamentary chambers — the country's eastern-based parliament in Tobruk, and the western-based High Council of State in Tripoli. The first round was held over a week in April in Cairo, where both sides agreed on pursuing efforts to draw up a constitutional and legislative framework for holding presidential and parliamentary elections at the earliest opportunity. This round is a new bid to end the split between the eastern and western camps after the adjournment of the presidential elections, originally slated for December 2021, over differences between rival factions on laws governing the elections and the eligibility of presidential candidates. POLITICAL OVERVIEW:

Italy supports every diplomatic mediation that leads to stability in Libya.

Italian Prime Minister, Mario Draghi, has confirmed that his country is pushing towards a solution that brings stability in Libya, which he considered a goal that should be pursued. In a statement before the "Towards the South" forum, organized by the European House Ambrositi in Sorrento, Italy, Draghi acknowledged the difficulty of reaching a compromise to succeed in forming a freely elected government in Libya by its people, pointing out that Italy supports every diplomatic mediation that leads to stability in the Mediterranean countries. Italy wants to be back at the forefront of diplomatic operations in Libya to maintain the role of the mediator to enable the Italian company Eni to obtain an exploratory mandate to research and use new resources while avoiding antagonizing anyone sides, the Italian Decode 39 website said. Bashagha govt should start work in Sirte, Libyan parliament says

Libya's parliament wants the government it has appointed under Fathi Bashagha to be based for now in Sirte, it said on Tuesday, amid a stalemate over control of the capital Tripoli where another administration refuses to hand over power. The move represents the clearest acknowledgment since the parliament appointed Bashagha in March that he cannot take over in Tripoli yet with Libya paralyzed by its crisis of two governments. The deadlock between Bashagha and Abdul Hamid Dbeibah, who was appointed prime minister last year, risks igniting a new round of conflict in Libya after two years of comparative peace or splitting its territory again between rival camps. Both sides are backed by armed factions and any attempt by Bashagha to force his way into Tripoli could trigger fighting across western areas of Libya. The parliament will hold its own next session in Sirte, a central coastal city close to the frozen frontline from Libya's last conflict, in support of Bashagha's government, said the chamber's spokesperson Abdullah Belhaiq. It is time for all Libyan parties to unite and conduct elections to meet the needs of the Libyan people.

U.S. State Department regional spokesman Samuel Warberg reiterated his country's support for the UN-led political process in Libya, and that it is time for all Libyan parties to unite to have elections in Libya to meet what the Libyan people want. In an interview with Al-Hurra TV, the US official attributed the economic, humanitarian and social challenges now in Libya to the lack of a unified government. On the existence of sanctions for those obstructing the operation, Warberg stressed that sanctions would be imposed by the United Nations, the United States, partners, allies and other countries in the region and outside the region. "We are monitoring things and working with all parties now, as we have seen from the multiple visits of special envoy and Ambassador Richard Norland in Libya, who will meet with all Libyan parties and leaders, and we encourage all Libyan parties to make the necessary preparations for the elections and to take into account that the number of Libyans who registered in the elections more than (2.800,000), therefore the people wants these elections to take place, and the United States supports this desire of the Libyan people. Williams and Spanish Ambassador agree to holding Libyan elections as soon as possible.

UN Secretary-General's Adviser on Libya Stephanie Williams discussed Wednesday with Spanish Ambassador Francisco Javier García Larach international efforts to support holding of elections in Libya as soon as possible. Stephanie tweeted 'after meeting in Tripoli with Spanish Ambassador Francisco Javier García Larach, we discussed the situation in Libya and the importance of supporting a constitutional electoral path owned by Libyans that is viable in order to enable elections to be held as soon as possible.' "We agreed on the need to ensure that all international efforts on Libya are united to support the Libyan-led process while maintaining calm and stability on the ground", Williams said. COVID-19 ADVISE FOR THE PUBLIC: GETTING VACCINATED

The world is in the midst of a COVID-19 pandemic. As WHO and partners work together on the response -- tracking the pandemic, advising on critical interventions, distributing vital medical supplies to those in need, they are racing to develop and deploy safe and effective vaccines.

Vaccines save millions of lives each year. Vaccines work by training and preparing the body's natural defences – the immune system – to recognize and fight off the viruses and bacteria they target. After vaccination, if the body is later exposed to those disease-causing germs, the body is immediately ready to destroy them, preventing illness.

There are several safe and effective vaccines that prevent people from getting seriously ill or dying from COVID-19. This is one part of managing COVID-19, in addition to the main preventive measures of staying at least 1 metre away from others, covering a cough or sneeze in your elbow, frequently cleaning your hands, wearing a mask and avoiding poorly ventilated rooms or opening a window.

As of 3 June 2021, WHO has evaluated that the following vaccines against COVID-19 have met the necessary criteria for safety and efficacy:

- AstraZeneca/Oxford vaccine
- Johnson and Johnson
- Moderna
- Pfizer/BioNTech
- Sinopharm
- Sinovac

Some national regulators have also assessed other COVID-19 vaccine products for use in their countries.

Take whatever vaccine is made available to you first, even if you have already had COVID-19. It is important to be vaccinated as soon as possible once it's your turn and not wait. Approved COVID-19 vaccines provide a high degree of protection against getting seriously ill and dying from the disease, although no vaccine is 100% protective.

The COVID-19 vaccines are safe for most people 18 years and older, including those with pre-existing conditions of any kind, including auto-immune disorders. These conditions include: hypertension, diabetes, asthma, pulmonary, liver and kidney disease, as well as chronic infections that are stable and controlled.

If supplies are limited in your area, discuss your situation with your care provider if you:

- Have a compromised immune system
- Are pregnant (if you are already breastfeeding, you should continue after vaccination)
- Have a history of severe allergies, particularly to a vaccine (or any of the ingredients in the vaccine)
- Are severely frail

Children and adolescents tend to have milder disease compared to adults, so unless they are part of a group at higher risk of severe COVID-19, it is less urgent to vaccinate them than older people, those with chronic health conditions and health workers.

CORONAVIRUS DISEASE (COVID-19) ADVISE FOR THE PUBLIC

Protect yourself and others from COVID-19

- If COVID-19 is spreading in your community, stay safe by taking some simple precautions, such as physical distancing, wearing a mask, keeping rooms well ventilated, avoiding crowds, cleaning your hands, and coughing into a bent elbow or tissue. Check local advice where you live and work. Do it all!

What to do to keep yourself and others safe from COVID-19

- Maintain at least a 1-metre distance between yourself and others to reduce your risk of infection when they cough, sneeze or speak. Maintain an even greater distance between yourself and others when indoors. The further away, the better.

How to make your environment safer

- Avoid the 3Cs: spaces that are closed, crowded or involve close contact.
- Outbreaks have been reported in restaurants, choir practices, fitness classes, nightclubs, offices and places of worship where people have gathered, often in crowded indoor settings where they talk loudly, shout, breathe heavily or sing.
- The risks of getting COVID-19 are higher in crowded and inadequately ventilated spaces where infected people spend long periods of time together in close proximity. These environments are where the virus appears to spread by respiratory droplets or aerosols more efficiently, so taking precautions is even more important.
- Meet people outside. Outdoor gatherings are safer than indoor ones, particularly if indoor spaces are small and without outdoor air coming in.

Don't forget the basics of good hygiene

- Regularly and thoroughly clean your hands with an alcohol-based hand rub or wash them with soap and water. This eliminates germs including viruses that may be on your hands.
- Avoid touching your eyes, nose and mouth. Hands touch many surfaces and can pick up viruses. Once contaminated, hands can transfer the virus to your eyes, nose or mouth. From there, the virus can enter your body and infect you.
- Cover your mouth and nose with your bent elbow or tissue when you cough or sneeze. Then dispose of the used tissue immediately into a closed bin and wash your hands. By following good 'respiratory hygiene', you protect the people around you from viruses, which cause colds, flu and COVID-19.
- Clean and disinfect surfaces frequently especially those which are regularly touched, such as door handles, faucets and phone screens.

What to do if you feel unwell

- Know the full range of symptoms of COVID-19. The most common symptoms of COVID-19 are fever, dry cough, and tiredness. Other symptoms that are less common and may affect some patients include loss of taste or smell, aches and pains, headache, sore throat, nasal congestion, red eyes, diarrhea, or a skin rash.

- Stay home and self-isolate even if you have minor symptoms such as cough, headache, mild fever, until you recover. Call your health care provider or hotline for advice. Have someone bring you supplies. If you need to leave your house or have someone near you, wear a medical mask to avoid infecting others.
- If you have a fever, cough and difficulty breathing, seek medical attention immediately. Call by telephone first, if you can and follow the directions of your local health authority.
- Keep up to date on the latest information from trusted sources, such as your local and national health authorities. Local and national authorities and public health units are best placed to advise on what people in your area should be doing to protect themselves.

The best way to protect yourself:

FOLLOW TRAVEL GUIDELINES

Follow recommendations on canceling or postponing travel from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. Avoid discretionary travel.

WASH YOUR HANDS

Stop the spread of disease-causing germs by washing your hands often. Use hand sanitizer if soap and water are not available.

COVER YOUR MOUTH AND NOSE

When you cough or sneeze, cover your mouth and nose with a tissue or your sleeve, rather than your hands. Try to avoid touching your face.

AVOID CARE FACILITIES

Do not visit nursing homes, long-term care facilities or retirement communities, unless you're providing critical assistance.

PRACTICE SOCIAL DISTANCING

Work from home (if possible), engage in social distancing, maintain a 6-foot distance from other people and avoid groups of people larger than 10.

CLEAN AND DISINFECT

Use a virus-killing disinfectant to clean frequently used surfaces such as doorknobs.

STAY HOME WHEN SICK

Avoid leaving the house if you are sick. Connect with healthcare providers by phone or through virtual visits.

MAINTAIN HEALTHY HABITS

Get enough sleep, eat healthy foods, drink plenty of liquids and exercise, if you are able, to help keep your immune system strong.
